Board Recruitment

Collective is seeking up to four new board members to join us at this exciting time as we move towards opening the redeveloped City Observatory on Calton hill as a world-class contemporary visual arts space, in early 2018. This is a unique opportunity to contribute to an ambitious charity seeking to create a new kind of city observatory for Edinburgh and Scotland.

As we transition into this new phase in Collective's development, launching our opening programme and operating in an historic site with diversified income strands, we are particularly keen to recruit board members with a range of private and business networks and experience in commercial enterprise, estate management and philanthropy. These appointments will complement our current Board whose expertise includes visual art, business, finance, marketing, education, architecture, voluntary sector and governance. Board members are directors of the company and trustees of the charity and play a vital role in the governance of Collective. During this critical time of development, they are particularly engaged in risk management and fundraising and in providing support to Collective's skilled management team. Board members are expected to attend meetings, some Collective events, participate in sub-committees, advocate for Collective and support fundraising and staff.

Collective engages widely with diverse communities and we are keen that board membership reflects this diversity.

If you are interested in our mission and think you can contribute as a board member, please contact Chair, Anne Bonnar (anne@b-k.co.uk or 0131 225 7677) for an informal and confidential exploratory discussion by 1 December 2017.

About Collective

Established in 1984, The Artists' Collective Gallery Ltd (Collective) is a company limited by guarantee with charitable status and has been fundamental to the cultural vitality of Scotland by supporting new work by artists who are at a pivotal stage in their development. We provide artists with the opportunity to make new work and audiences the chance to see it here first. Our programme of exhibitions, walks, events and off-site projects presents contemporary art in all its diversity.

Collective is currently engaged in a major capital project, creating a new kind of City Observatory on Calton Hill. In 2018 the A-listed site will open freely to the public for the first time in its history. In partnership with the City of Edinburgh Council, Collective will save the site, which is on the Buildings at Risk Register and become custodians of this important piece of Scotland's heritage. Collective will become a world-class contemporary visual arts space, commissioning important new work by local and international practitioners.
